Opening Remarks Mel Baxter, MSP President

Room 2GH

Keynote Address: Session A • Pharmacists as Decision-Makers

1:00-2:00pm • 1CEU
Room 2GH

Marshall Moleschi, Registrar, Ontario College of Pharmacists

During his keynote address Marshall Moleschi, current Registrar of the Ontario College of Pharmacists and former Register of the College of Pharmacists of British Columbia, will focus on the evolving role of pharmacists, as integral decision-makers, on a patient's healthcare team. Beginning with a foundational understanding of the political, economical and social realities that are shaping the future of our profession Marshall will provide insight into the current landscape of pharmacy practice in Canada touching on the status of expanded scope legislation and pharmacy technician integration amongst the different jurisdictions. The emphasis of Marshall's address however, will be on pharmacist's ability, as decision-makers, to navigate the grey and provide insight into the many challenges pharmacists are facing as we move outside of our comfort zone as dispensers and advisors into the role of responsible, accountable and liable decision-makers. Marshall's presentation will conclude with the introduction of a practical thought process, designed to assist pharmacists in utilizing our professional judgment as we make decisions to support the health and well-being of our patients.

Session C • The Way Forward to Better Patient Care: A Pivotal Role for Pharmacists

3:00-3:45pm • .75CEU
Room 2GH

Steve Long, B.Sc., B.Sc. (Pharm), MBA, Director of National Public Policy with Shoppers Drug Mart

Canada's national annual healthcare expenditure of $200 billion continues to grow by roughly 6% each year. Prescription drug expenditures made up $27 billion of the $200 billion total health expenditures in Canada (CIHI 2011). Pharmacists and technicians are poised to play a broader, more pivotal role in improving patient access to services. Their actions will unlock value and ensure long-term sustainability of healthcare through:

1. Treating minor ailments and administering vaccines by continuing to expand Pharmacists' scope of practice;
2. Ensuring affordable access to key medications by creating policies and plan designs that encourage lower-cost alternative therapies;
3. Helping patients manage chronic diseases more effectively to improve quality of life and avoid hospital admissions;
4. Leveraging the pharmaceutical distribution model for improved emergency preparedness and pandemic response systems; and
5. Further preventing adverse drug reactions by focusing on information sharing, user-friendly e-Health systems, and connectivity with other healthcare practitioners

This presentation will outline the strategies and practical approaches and considerations to establish this pivotal role for pharmacists in providing better patient care.

Topic 1 Herpes Zoster & Post Herpetic Neuralgia: A New Approach to Treatment and Prevention

Dr. Fred Aoki, MD, FRCP (C), ABCP, Infectious Disease Specialist, University of Manitoba

The incidence of HZ increases dramatically with age, affecting quality of life and leading to complications, hospitalizations and death. New vaccines create the opportunity to shift disease management from treatment to prevention. Currently, a vaccine for Herpes Zoster is approved for use in Canada for the prevention of herpes zoster (shingles) in individuals 50 years of age or older. Upon the completion of this session, pharmacists will be able to educate patients on herpes zoster, manage the acute and chronic phases of this disease as well as identify patients for preventative measures, including herpes zoster immunization.

Topic 2 Improving Health for All – Strategies in Primary Health Care

Barbara Wasilewski, BN MBA, Executive Director, Primary Health Care, Manitoba Health

Manitoba Health is making strategic investments in order to provide better primary care for Manitobans and develop a sustainable health care system. As part of the plan, the Premier has committed that all Manitobans will have access to a family doctor by 2015. This presentation will provide an overview of key steps toward that goal, including the introduction of new Primary Care Networks and supporting initiatives such as Mobile Clinics, QuickCare Clinics, self-management supports, and team-based inter-professional care.

Topic 3 Confidential: Privacy and the Reality of Pharmacy Practice

Christopher Louizos, B.Sc.(Pharm), Instructor, University of Manitoba / Pharmacist, Sobeys Taylor Pharmacy

Privacy and the confidentiality of health information have been receiving increasing attention by media and government. The resulting heightened public attention brings privacy issues right to the pharmacy counter. This session will examine some of the realities of privacy in pharmacy practice and call upon recent surveys and the lessons learned from past transgressions to focus our thoughts on how best to handle privacy in our own practice.

Session E2 • Interprofessional Education and Practice: From WHAT and WHY to HOW

Ruby Grymonpre, B.Sc.(Pharm), PharmD, FCSHP, Professor, Faculty of Pharmacy & IPE Coordinator, University of Manitoba

Pan Am

Lori Lamont, Vice President Interprofessional Practice and Chief Nursing Officer, WRHA

There is growing evidence to suggest that interprofessional education (IPE) for interprofessional collaborative practice (IPP) improves the health and wellbeing of individuals, their families and communities and improves health human resources outcomes. Since 2008 the University of Manitoba has partnered with the Winnipeg Regional Health Authority to advance IPE and IPP. The goal of this workshop is to help participants understand the 'what', 'why' and 'how' of IPE and IPP. Participants will have an opportunity to apply these theoretical principles through small group discussion and interactive exercises.

Topic 2 Adult Obesity in Manitoba: Prevalence, Association and Outcomes

Principal Investigator: Dr. Randy Fransoo, BSc, MSc, PhD, Research Scientist, MCHP & Assistant Professor, Department of Community Health Sciences, University of Manitoba

Obesity is a major public health concern. This report combines information from national surveys with data in MCHP's Population Health Research Data Repository to describe the prevalence of obesity among adults in Manitoba, including the distribution across RHAs and changes over time. It also analyzes the relationship between body size and chronic diseases, mortality rates, and the use of a variety of healthcare services. Implications of the findings for the healthcare system and for public health approaches to address the issue are discussed.

Topic 3 Falls Prevention

Dr. Lynne Warda, Medical Director, IMPACT, WRHA

Falls are a significant problem among older adults. It is estimated that one third of individuals over the age of 65 will fall each year, and older adults who fall once are twice as likely to fall again. The good news is that most falls can be prevented. This session will review assessment tools that can be used to identify factors that put older adults at increased risk of falling, and provide evidence for interventions that have been successful at reducing falls. We will also introduce Winnipeg Regional Health Authority's new website, www.preventfalls.ca, and resources for falls prevention that pharmacists can use in their practice and share with clients.
