

Barry Power, PharmD, is the Director of Therapeutic Content for the Canadian Pharmacists Association where he oversees the development of drug and therapeutic content for CPhA's RxTx and print publications. He has clinical practice experience in community and primary care settings and has worked in government, consulting and association roles. Barry is currently a consultant pharmacist with the eConsult program in the Ottawa area where he provides advice to primary care providers on complex drug therapy cases.